

Instructor: Date:

Learner: Regional Branch:

Program: Center:

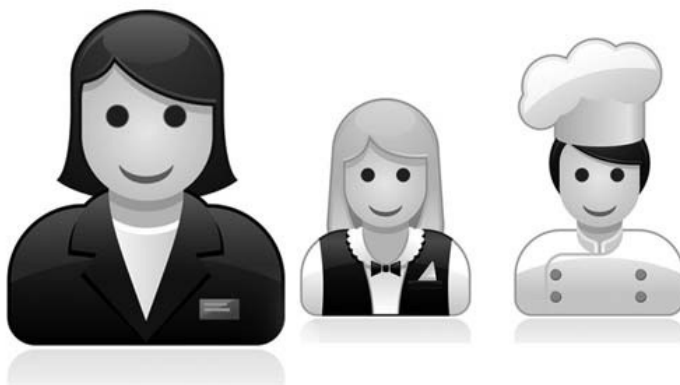

CONTENT

- Let's Start! • Let's Explore! • Let's Practice! • Extension Activity • Target Words • Learning Points

Let's Start!

Let's talk about being a manager!

Learning Outcome

Exchange information about unlikely events or fairly certain conditions that will be fulfilled in present, past or future in spoken or written texts and in work and social contexts.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about beliefs, opinions, relationships or character traits.
- I can express uncertainty about past events.
- I can express comparison between two things or events.

Ask your partner:

- What personality traits do you consider to be essential for a manager?
- What kind of management skills or techniques do you feel you have?

Let's Explore!

The government and the police are part of the conspiracy against me.

* A "conspiracy" means a secret plan by a group to do something unlawful or harmful.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Later that night at the Bistro

- Vanessa: Rachel, may I have a word?
- Rachel: What? I'm ready to go. It's late.
- Vanessa: We need to talk about your job performance lately.
- Rachel: I've been working as hard as anyone here. Who works as hard as me?
- Vanessa: This is not a conversation about your work rate, it's about your attitude. Your disposition lately has been surly at best.
- Rachel: My attitude is fine ...
- Vanessa: Your demeanor towards customers and co-workers has become problematic.
- Rachel: Well, maybe my attitude would change if I didn't have to work in such chaos. Michael earns more than me and he is as disorganized as he is rude.
- Vanessa: You are speaking as if you're the manager. Listen! Michael is a bartender and he has his responsibilities.
- Rachel: That's besides the point. I do the work as it should be done, I have worked here longer than anyone and I don't get treated with respect.
- Vanessa: You may have worked here a long time and you may have done a good job in the past, but I have recently seen you mistreat customers and tonight I witnessed you disparage and belittle colleagues in front of customers. Then, I noticed someone left the till open behind the bar.
- Rachel: That was not me! That was Jose!
- Vanessa: Jose might have opened the till, the other bartenders might have done it ... I don't know! But I watched you walk right by it twice and not close it.
- Rachel: I know what is going on here. I am not as silly as you think I am! This is a conspiracy against me.
- Vanessa: Oh, Rachel. I'm afraid I'm going to have to ...
- Vanessa Text: "Nothing is permanent in this wicked world, not even our troubles." Charlie Chaplin. Love Sally.
- Vanessa: Rachel. It's later than I thought. Go home get some sleep. We'll talk about this later.
- Rachel: But ...
- Vanessa: Rachel. Good night.

Let's Practice!

Vanessa expounds* on Rachel's performance.

To expound means to talk about in great detail.*

Instructions: Choose the words from the Word Bank to correctly complete the sentences.

- 1) You _____ here a long time, but tonight I witnessed you disparage and belittle colleagues in front of customers.
- 2) _____ a good job in the past, but I have recently seen you mistreat customers.
- 3) Jose _____ the till.
- 4) The other bartender _____ it.

Word Bank

might have done / may have played / may have worked 7 might have gone / You may have done / might have opened

Let's Practice!

Rachel defends her performance!

Instructions: Proofread the sentences. Correct the mistake. Read the sentences aloud. Check your pronunciation with your instructor.

- 1) I have been working as hardest as anyone here.
- 2) Who work as hard as me?
- 3) Michael earns more than me and he is as stupidest as he is lazy.
- 4) I am not so stupid like you think!
- 5) You are speaking so if you are the manager.
- 6) I do the work as they should be done.

Extension Activity

Compare the pros and cons of being a manager.

Instructions: Complete the following steps. Fill in the Self-Assessment.

- With a partner, discuss what kind of management you think it would be good to get into – hotel management, sports, entertainment, tourism, business ... ?
- What skills does a manager need to have?
- Make a list of the pros and cons of being a manager.
- Write 200 words describing why you would like to be a manager or why you wouldn't. Explain your reasons.
- Have a partner read your writing and give feedback.

Self-Assessment Yes No

I discuss what type of management would be interesting to me. ☐ ☐

I brainstorm what skills a manager needs. ☐ ☐

I brainstorm the pros and cons of the job. ☐ ☐

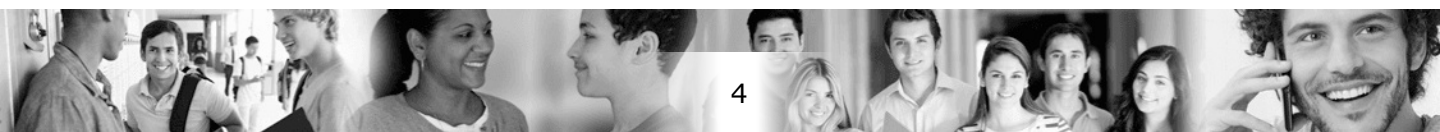

I describe in writing why I would or wouldn't like to be a manager explaining why. ☐ ☐

I give feedback to my partner. ☐ ☐

Target Words

- job performance (noun): ability to carry out or accomplish an action, task, or function at work e.g. We need to talk about your job performance.
- disposition (noun): a person's inherent qualities of mind and character e.g. Your disposition lately has been surly at best.
- surly (adjective): bad-tempered and unfriendly e.g. My grandpa can be very surly when he isn't feeling well.
- problematic (adjective): presenting a problem or difficulty
e.g. Your demeanor towards customers and co-workers has become problematic.
- besides the point (expression): not important or relevant e.g. That's besides the point.
- to disparage (verb): to regard or represent as being of little worth e.g. I witnessed you disparage colleagues in front of customers.
- to belittle (verb): to make someone or something seem unimportant
e.g. I witnessed you belittle colleagues in front of customers.
- wicked (adjective): evil or morally wrong
e.g. Nothing is permanent in this wicked world.

Learning Points

Meaning of Perfect Modals

Perfect modals can have different meanings than their present counterparts. You use the structure modal + have + past participle to make sentences with perfect modals.

Could have - to talk about unrealistic past possibilities (you use this structure with the third conditional)

For example:

I could have gone away for vacation, but decided to have a staycation instead.

Will have - to talk about something that will happen before another action in the future. It can also show that something will occur before a specific time in the future.

For example:

I will have completed the project before you return from holidays.

I will have gone away for vacation this time next week.

May/might have - to talk about realistic past possibilities

For example:

I might have seen you at the mall the other day, I just can't be sure.

Should have - to express regrets

For example:

I shouldn't have eaten so much pizza - I feel sick now!

Must have - to make logical deductions

For example:

That car is gorgeous - it must have cost you a pretty penny!

Examples:

- You may have worked here a long time, but tonight I witnessed you disparage and belittle colleagues in front of customers.
- You may have done a good job in the past, but I have recently seen you mistreat customers.
- Jose might have opened the till.
- The other bartender might have done it.

Learning Points

The Comparative Clause: Manner

You can use adverbial clauses of comparison to describe manner (the way in which someone does something).

Using comparative clauses helps to make your language use more descriptive and dynamic.

You introduce the comparative clause with the relative adverb as.

For example:

You may do as you wish.

It ended as I expected it would.

When as comes at the beginning of the sentence, it can sound quite formal and old-fashioned.

For example:

As you are aware, the project needs to be finalized by Tuesday.

As we all know, the company is moving ahead with the expansion.

Take a look at some other examples from the text:

Examples:

- I've been working as hard as anyone here.
- Who works as hard as me?
- I am not as silly as you think!
- You are speaking as if you are the manager.
- I do the work as it should be done.

